I found this in a used book store's remainder bin, and I was so touched that I nearly cried on the bus. Bernos de Gasztold, who lives in a French abbey, has written some very simple prayers by animals. Rumer Godden is an inspired translator. PRAYER OF THE (ROOSTER) Do not forget, Lord, it is I who make the sun rise. I am Your servant but, with the dignity of my calling, I need some glitter and ostentation. Noblesse oblige... All the same, I am Your servant, only...do not forget, Lord, I make the sun rise. Amen. PRAYER OF THE CAT Lord, I am the cat. It is not, exactly, that I have something to ask of You! No -- I ask nothing of anyone -- but, if You have by some chance, in some celestial barn, a little white mouse, or a saucer of milk, I know someone who would relish them. Wouldn't You like someday to put a curse on the whole race of dogs? If so I should say Amen. THE PRAYER OF THE MOUSE I am so little and grey, dear God, how can You keep me in mind? Always spied upon, always chased. Nobody ever gives me anything, and I nibble meagrely at life. Why do they reproach me with being a mouse? Who made me but You? I only ask to stay hidden. Give me my hunger's pittance safe from the claws of that devil with green eyes. Amen. THE PRAYER OF THE OLD HORSE See, Lord, My coat hangs in tatters, like homespun, old, threadbare. All that I had of zest, all my strength, I have given in hard work and kept nothing back for myself. Now my poor head swings to offer up all the loneliness of my heart. Dear God, stiff on my thickened legs I stand here before You: Your unprofitable servant. Oh! of Your goodness, give me a gentle death. Amen.

PRAYERS FROM THE ARK was written and published first, and the poems are in the form of prayers. THE CREATURES' CHOIR was written quite a few years later and these last poems are more like letters to God, where the animals refer to their daily problems. The author did not write sentimental verse. The poems of the animals seem to radiate with truth. I was first introduced to PRAYERS FROM THE ARK in 1977 by my sister, Susan who lent me her book. Since that time, I've purchased two copies myself, and have given several as gifts. The original book was written in French by Carmen Bernos De Gasztold, and published in 1947. The famous author, Rumer Godden discovered the work and was so impressed with the poems that she translated them into English. There are over fifty beautiful poems in this book where each animal speaks to God in his or her own voice revealing their individual traits and personalities. The Dove--"The Ark waits, Lord; it has endured. Let me carry it a sprig of hope and joy." The Dog--"No one but You and I understands what faithfulness is." The Ladybird-- "Thank You for having made me so that no one is afraid of me." This is a charming book for an adult to read and a wonderful way for a child to learn that every creature's life has dignity and purpose.

If they could talk, what would God's "other creatures" say? Read this book and find out. The author's imagined, unspoken expressions of as yet unrecognized intelligence in the animal and insect world will instill new sensitivity in those who previously took these fellow beings all too much for granted. Read this and realize that the earth belongs to them as much as to us. Hear their voices and understand their world. A must for every child - for every adult.

This book is funny and heart breaking. It captures something in nature that most of us never take the time to notice. Do creatures commune with God? Why not? Who are we humans to think that only we can speak to our Maker. Even if you are not an "animal lover" this book has something for you.

I have been buying and giving this book in all editions for more than 30 years. It is a dear, sweet inspirational appreciation of each animal's essence. I am not religious; but am touched by these poems.

This was a lovely, gentle, book for all ages. It's something to read to children as soon as they are able to listen. They'll absorb lovely lessons.

Excellent condition for a used book. This is the English translation version. Simple illustrations and poignantly written; not for children only but I certainly enjoy reading over and over. Recommended for any age group.

I have a prejudice; I am a total animal lover. These beautiful little poems catch both the joy and the sadness and hardships of our animal friends. I don't speak French so I don't know if they would be even better in the original language but the translator has done a wonderful job of capturing the poetry. This is a beautiful work and well worth the investment.
